

CUSTOMIZED SOLUTIONS FOR INDEPENDENT SCHOOLS

Campus Complexity Focus

From the playground to the science lab and everywhere in between, risk presents itself across every area of the school campus. Independent school administrators face a complex portfolio of risks as they aim to provide the best education for their students and the best value for their families. Serving many independent schools throughout the mid-Atlantic region, RCM&D's Education Practice has extensive experience and keen insights into current issues which enable us to develop long-term strategies and highly targeted solutions for the K-12 landscape.

Specialized Programs to Protect the Future

Schools are responsible for providing a safe environment for their students as they pursue knowledge, development and socialization. Administrators face additional challenges to protect their infrastructure and financial capital along with providing for the productivity and satisfaction of teachers and staff members. By working as your collaborative partner, we create an in-depth relationship with each school that we serve, taking the time to understand your specific concerns and create specialized programs to mitigate risk and protect your future.

Highly Invested in Independent Schools

RCM&D is committed to the continuing success of independent schools, as demonstrated by our involvement with many educational organizations, including the National Business Officers Association (NBOA), the National Catholic Education Association (NCEA), the Association of Independent Maryland and D.C. Schools (AIMS), the Association of Independent Schools of Greater Washington, Association of Independent Schools of Greater Washington (AISGW) and the Virginia Association of Independent Schools (VAIS). By partnering with these associations, we gain deeper understanding of your needs and provide comprehensive resources and programs to assist you in better managing the business of your school while minimizing potential risks.
