OSHA Recordkeeping Solution

OSHA's recordkeeping standard is clear: Employers are required to keep and submit an annual log of work-related injuries and illnesses to OSHA.

For many administrators tasked with accurately maintaining their organization's OSHA log, the administrative burden of these requirements can be daunting, time-consuming, and often confusing.

After an employee's workplace injury or illness is reported, it can be challenging to determine whether there was medical treatment beyond first aid or track restricted and lost days. SISCO's OSHA Recordkeeping Solution is now available to help with these critically important tasks by offering an intuitive platform backed by the expertise of SISCO.

Expertise Meets Innovative Technology

Whether due to the sheer volume of incidents or difficulties in tracking down information, SISCO recognizes that maintaining your organization's OSHA log and properly documenting recordable claims, restricted duty and lost days can be time consuming. Combining an easy-to-use platform with a team of seasoned consultants, SISCO's OSHA Recordkeeping Solution can help ensure your team has all the necessary tools to keep accurate records and stay in compliance.

The Benefits

- ✓ Access to and support from a dedicated SISCO consultant well-versed in OSHA's recordkeeping standards.

- ✓ A year-end review to finalize your OSHA log.

- ✓ Access to customized dashboards.
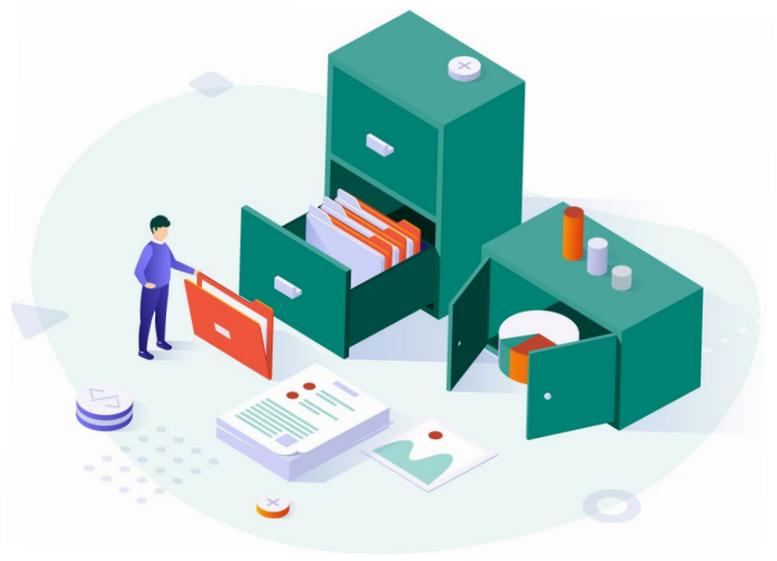

- ✓ Access to on-demand generation of your OSHA log.

How Does it Work?

For current SISCO TPA clients:

Once a workers' compensation claim is reported to SISCO, your adjuster makes an initial "basic" OSHA recordability determination based on the information provided. During the monthly or quarterly meetings, your dedicated risk consultant will review your current dashboard to determine if the OSHA recordability needs to be updated, discuss any outliers, and answer any questions or concerns you may have. At the year-end review, SISCO will generate the OSHA log for you to review and verify, as a final validation of the log's accuracy. As a SISCO client, you have options for generating your log. Our team can schedule logs to be delivered straight to your email on a monthly or quarterly basis, or you can generate them anytime on-demand using our award-winning claim and risk management platform, Origami Risk.

For organizations not currently engaged with SISCO for TPA services:

We have a simple process in place for you to securely submit your workers' compensation loss runs, which will be stored in our claims management platform. This platform will allow you access to customized dashboards and generate your OSHA log. Most importantly, you will have a dedicated risk consultant to review claims with you and determine OSHA recordability at regularly scheduled meetings.

DISCLAIMER: The SISCO OSHA Recordkeeping Solution is designed to be a tool in keeping accurate OSHA logs for injury and illness. SISCO cannot guarantee the accuracy of OSHA logs. It is still the employer's responsibility to review and verify the accuracy of the log on an annual basis.
